

Eprints and Preprints

A

ARC

<http://arc.cs.odu.edu>

ARC is the search engine of the Open Archive Initiative, which provides free access to the refereed research literature available through this service. Disciplines currently include physics, mathematics, computer science, and the cognitive sciences.

ArXiv.org e-Print archive

<http://au.arxiv.org/>

Supported by the US National Science Foundation and Cornell University, this website provides access to thousands of free preprints in participating archive repositories. Subjects include mathematics, physics, nonlinear sciences and computing.

B

BioMed Central

<http://www.biomedcentral.com/>

BioMed Central provides access to a range of open access and subscription-based journals in the fields of biology and medicine.

C

CiteSeer

<http://citeseer.ist.psu.edu/>

A scientific literature digital library and search engine that focuses primarily on the literature in computer and information science.

CogPrints

<http://cogprints.org/>

Based at the University of Southampton, Cogprints is an electronic archive for papers in any area of

- Psychology
- Neuroscience
- Linguistics

and many areas of

- Computer Science (e.g., artificial intelligence, robotics, vision, learning, speech, neural networks)
- Philosophy (e.g., mind, language, knowledge, science, logic)
- Biology (e.g., ethology, behavioural ecology, socio-biology, behaviour genetics, evolutionary theory)
- Medicine (e.g., psychiatry, neurology, human genetics, imaging)
- Anthropology (e.g., primatology, cognitive ethnology, palaeontology)

as well as any other portions of the physical, social and mathematical sciences that are pertinent to the study of cognition.

D

DoIS (Documents in Information Science)

<http://wotan.liu.edu/does/>

A database of articles and conference proceedings published in electronic format in the area of Library and Information Science.

E

EconWPA

<http://econwpa.wustl.edu/Welcome.html>

"This award winning service, (provided by the Economics Department of Washington University), is devoted to the free distribution of working papers in economics.

Education-line

<http://www.leeds.ac.uk/educol/>

Based at the University of Leeds, this is an indexed, full-text electronic archive of conference and working papers, reports, policy and discussion documents and early research results in the field of education and training.

E-LIS: e-prints in library and information sciences

<http://eprints.rclis.org/>

"An open access archive for scientific or technical documents, published or unpublished, on Librarianship, Information Science and Technology, and related application activities.

E-Math: Global Directory of Mathematics Preprint and e-Print Servers

<http://www.ams.org/global-preprints/>

"The mission of the Directory of Preprint and e-Print Servers is to make available to the mathematical community the current homepage URLs and email contacts of all mathematical preprint and e-print servers throughout the world. This directory will provide mathematicians with a tool to find any of these servers in order to browse the articles posted on them and, in many cases, to post an article to the server itself."

E-print Network: Research Communications for Scientists and Engineers

<http://www.osti.gov/eprints/>

Developed by the US Department of Energy, the PrePRINT Network provides a searchable index to preprint services in science and technology, including physics, chemistry, materials, biology, environmental sciences and nuclear medicine.

eScholarship Repository

<http://repositories.cdlib.org/escholarship/>

A growing collection of working papers, research papers and proceedings from the University of California's Berkeley Olin Program in Law & Economics; Institute of Business and Economic Research; Institute of Industrial Relations; Institute of Transportation Studies; and Transportation Centre.

European Research Papers Archive

<http://eiop.or.at/erpa/>

ERPA provides a common access point for full-text electronic working papers in the field of European economic integration. The participating institutions include the European University Institute (Florence), the European Community Studies Association Austria, the Max Planck Institute for the Study of Societies (Cologne), the Mannheim Centre for European Social Research, and ARENA (Oslo). Also available is the Jean Monnet Working Papers series from the Harvard University Law School.

N

Networked Computer Science Technical Reference Library

<http://www.ncstrl.org/>

A collaborative project providing access to the e-prints of several academic institutions including MIT, Cornell University, Stanford University, University of Leipzig and University of Bologna.

O

OAIster

<http://oaister.umdl.umich.edu/cgi/b/bib/bib-idx?c=oaister;page=simple>

Based at the University of Michigan, OAIster lets you search for over 1 million freely available digital documents (including preprints) held in nearly 300 institutions. Multidisciplinary in subject coverage.

P

PhysDoc

<http://physnet.uni-oldenburg.de/PhysNet/physdoc.html>

Physics Documents Worldwide offers lists of links to document sources, such as preprints, research reports, annual reports, and list of publications of worldwide distributed physics institutions and individual physicists, ordered by continent, country and town. Based at the Carl von Ossietzky University, Oldenburg, Germany.

R

Research Papers in Economics

<http://www.repec.org/>

"RePEc (Research Papers in Economics) is a collaborative effort of over 100 volunteers in about 25 countries to enhance the dissemination of research in economics. The heart of the project is a decentralized database of working papers, journal articles and software components. All RePEc material is freely available.

S

SAIL-prints service

<http://eprints.bo.cnr.it/>

Provides access to "scientific or technical documents, published or unpublished, in Chemistry, Physics, Engineering, Materials Sciences, Nanotechnologies, Microelectronics, Computer Sciences, Astronomy, Astrophysics, Earth Sciences, Meteorology, Oceanography, Agriculture, and related application activities."

Managed by the CNR Area della Ricerca di Bologna.

V

Virtual Technical Reports Centre: EPrints, Preprints, and Technical Reports on the Web

<http://www.lib.umd.edu/ENGIN/TechReports/Virtual-TechReports.html>

The Institutions listed here provide either full-text reports, or searchable extended abstracts of their technical reports on the World Wide Web. This site contains links to technical reports, preprints, reprints, dissertations, theses, and research reports of all kinds.
